

THE COSCORBA GOOSE

"I am not exactly one thing and I am not exactly another," said the Coscorba Goose, named for short Goosey.

"Ha, ha, quack, quack, quack," said the little Coscorba Goose, "Papa is going to make a speech."

"You are all just like me," said Goosey.

"We're all just like Papa," they quacked.

"Ha, ha, just like Papa,"

"Geese children," said their Papa severely, "It is not a joke to be like your Papa."

"It's an honor."

"Quack, quack, it's an honor to be like Papa," they said.

"You should know that without being told," said Goosey.

"We should know that without being told," quacked the little geese.

"Dear me, quack, quack," said Goosey, "my children are much like geese than ducks."

"They are silly and stupid," said Papa.

"You said we look like you," said Goosey, "no impudence, if you please."

So they all kept very quiet and looked very well behaved while their father settled himself by the bank of the pond and began to speak to them.

"I am not exactly one thing, and I am not exactly another," he began, and one of the children was just about to say that he had told them that before, when one of the others stopped him just in time.

"I am partly duck and I am partly a goose. In size and in my handsome coloring I am handsome Mr. Snow Goose."

Goosey, of whom everyone has heard.

"Has everyone heard of Mr. Snow Goose, Papa?" one of the Geese children asked.

"If anyone has not," said their Papa severely, "he should be ashamed to admit it."

"Please tell us some more," said one of the other little Geese children who hoped to be given a juicy bug as a reward for being so polite.

"I have long, long legs which are pink in color and my beautiful bill is pink—and your legs and bills take after mine."

"I have black touches here and there which look very smart. But my nature and ways are half like a duck's and half like a goose's."

"That makes me out of the ordinary, and makes me uncommon, rare!"

"I am so ordinary goose."

"I am unusual."

"They would never have called people geese when they wanted to be rude had they known me first," he ended, with his head high in the air.

And the children sang this song:

"Quack, quack, quack. We're neither one, or the other. We're somewhat ducks and somewhat geese. Which makes it hard to tell just what we are, just what we are."

Quack, quack, quack. We really should not say a word. For we're very proud indeed. And think it very fine indeed. To be partly ducks, and partly geese, yes, partly geese as well."

Quack, quack, quack. Our heads we love to smack. As we eat and drink. For we do both things. You do them both if you're ducks. And you do them both if you're geese as well."

Ninth Commandment

"What is the ninth commandment?" asked the Sunday school teacher of a small pupil.

"Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor," was the reply.

"What is meant by bearing false witness against our neighbor?" queried the teacher.

"It's when somebody does anything and somebody goes and tells it," answered the little fellow.

Why, So It Does!

Teacher—What animal requires the least nourishment?

Student—A moth.

Teacher—How's that?

Student—It eats holes.

Fond of Meringue

Jane was very fond of the meringue on pie. Seeing the ground white with the first snow of the autumn she exclaimed: "Oh, meringue, lots of pie!"

Run Too Fast

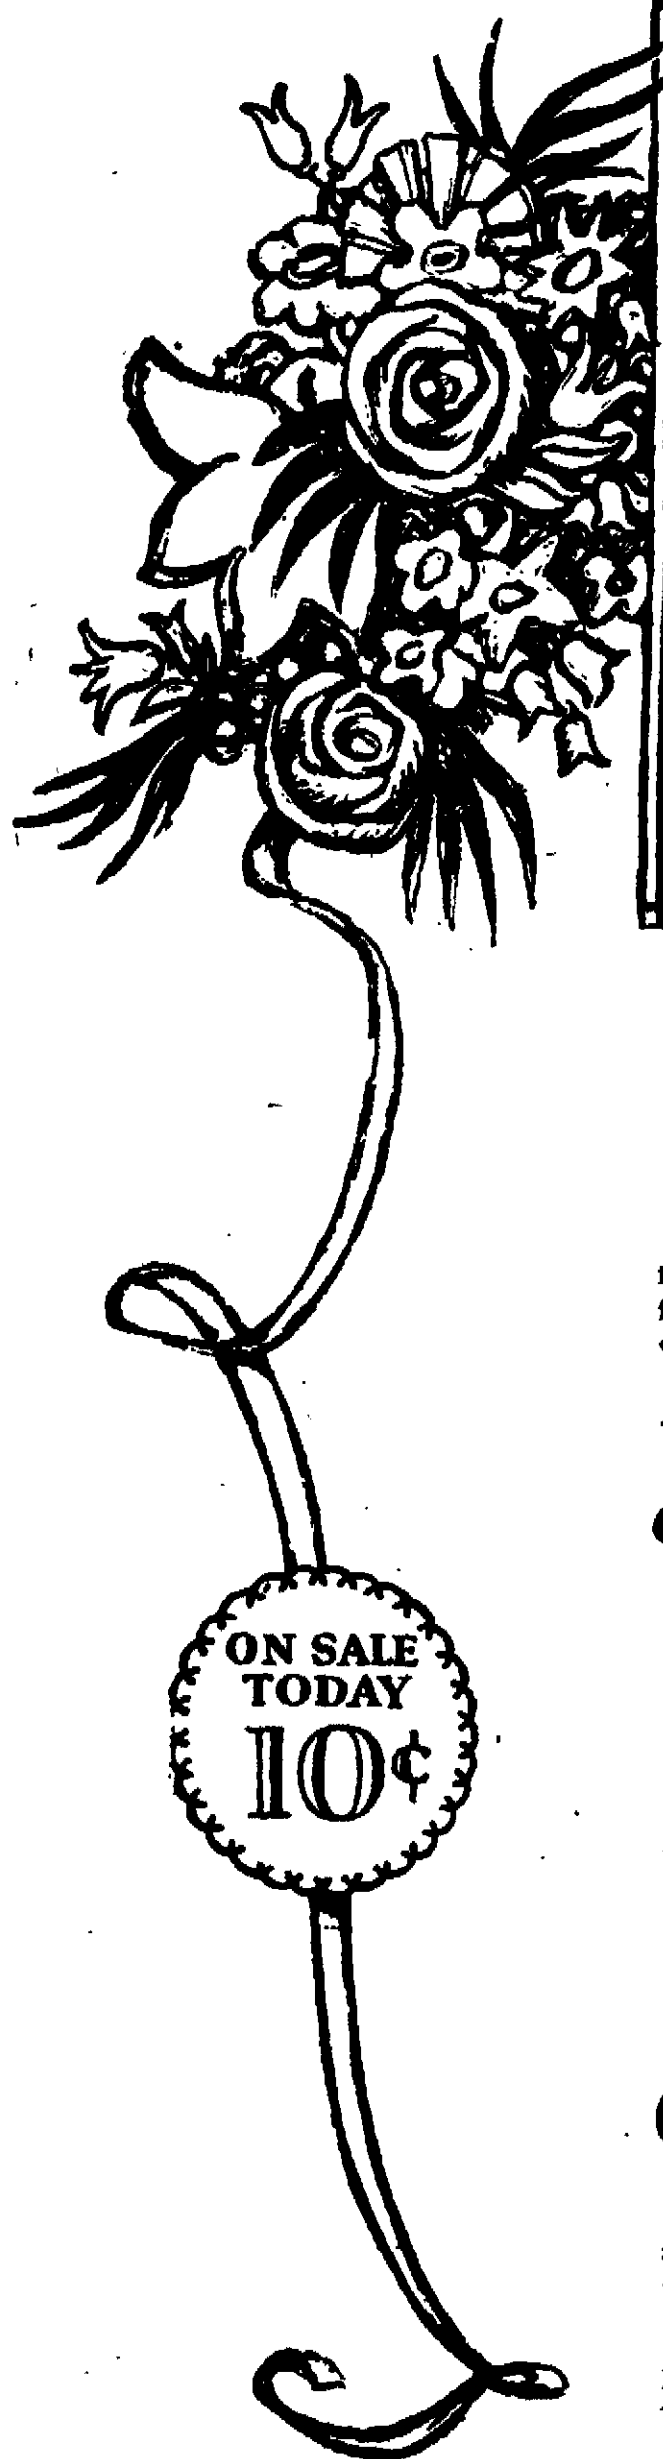

"Boy, Teddy, where'd you get the book over?"

"I was chasing the old man over and I caught him."

Game Not Worth Candles

And, after all, of what use is the game of appearance, for which so much is risked, so much is suffered? It cannot promote health or ease pain; it fails to increase of merit in the game; it creates envy; it breeds unhappiness.—A. Franklin.

"I LOVE YOU"

THREE WORDS . . . three words which burn with youth, with hope, with all things clean and fine. Three words which ring ever youthful throughout our lives. Three words which—alone of all words of which man is master—hold that sovereign magic to mock the slow ebbings of the days, the turnings of the seasons, the endless circlings of the years.

And so it was that at the words, "I'm in love with you, Callista Bayne," everything—pride, hunger, vanity, and fear—was forgotten in the sheltering harbor of a splendid love.

BRAMBLE BUSH, by Stacey Hutchings, is a glorious story of love and youth that calls to the eternal youth that lies in every one of us. Complete in the May Journal, NOW ON SALE, ten cents.

Black Water

By Hugh MacNair Kahler

Even the midday sun, filtering through interwoven branch and creeper, threw but a fitful light on the tangled maze of waterways which made Black Water a name of terror.

A few squatters lurked in its furthest depths—a strange, wild race, capable of even the strang-

How Harold Lloyd Makes You Laugh

Tonight tens of thousands will laugh and thrill at the antics of a tall, solemn, young man with great horn-rimmed spectacles.

Yet how much keener would be their interest if they but knew the tremendous amount of brains and thought that goes into the making of one of these comedies.

Here, in this fascinating article, Harold Lloyd tells you the whole story. Starting with the years before he arrived at stardom, he outlines everything—and even reveals some interesting details of the making of his latest picture. Complete in the May Journal, NOW ON SALE, ten cents.

City Hospital Needs Tray Covers

The auxiliary of the Kingston Hospital has been a busy organization since the fire which destroyed the major part of their stock supplies.

At the April meeting, the members present inspected the stock now on hand which represents the gifts of money from scores of interested friends of the hospital, the proceeds of entertainments and sales, but not of all a tremendous amount of time and labor by women of the auxiliary and also by outside organizations who volunteered help in the great emergency.

Names of all these who contributed in any way to the overwhelming needs of the institution were read out at the April meeting, and a long vote of thanks given them. The list includes every woman who contributed to the cake sales. The organizations have all been officially thanked for their donations and their services.

The following list is of gifts sent since moving into the hospital building a month ago:

Pillows and bolster, Miss Terwilliger; feather bed, Mrs. J. J. Johnson; envelopes, 500, C. M. Thomas; toys, Admiral Higginson; ice cream, Mrs. Van Aken; books, slippers, pillow screen, Mrs. William Pratt in memory of the Misses Lindsey; jellies, magazines, the Misses Fuller; books, Miss Quackenbush; patch-quilts, Mrs. John Schryver and Mrs. G. Whitaker; magazines, Mrs. D. E. Keyser, Miss Florio; tapestry, $5 for Kingston Daily Freeman, a friend; six bureau covers, Mrs. Jenkins of Clintondale.

The hospital is very much in need of tray covers, and would be glad to have them sent in by friends who wish to do a little light work at home for the hospital. The material would be linen which may be hemstitched, featherstitched or plain hemmed. The size is 14 by 18 inches. These are used on the trays for the patients' meals, and a great many are needed.

OFFICE CAT By Junius

Spring poets are requested to take a first detour to the right.

Nobody can tell you better how to succeed than the failure.

Lecturer—"The shot heard 'round the world was fired at the Battle of Concord."

Voice from audience—Maybe. But didn't make half as much noise as the Florida land boom!"

When Winter sat down in Spring's lap he must have had glue on his pants.

Mussolini was shot for trying to get to Italy, but there will still be men who will think they can get away with it at home.

Worsted.

For long the summer sun will glow in azure skies without a flock, and the bird will doff his collar and show.

The verdant dapple on his neck.

Old Winter came armed cap-a-pie.

We from the fount emerged a wreck.

He smote us hip and thigh, and we—

Look at us!—got it in the neck.

He smote us hip and thigh? Then we—

Would like to swat him on the cady.

For, way off down here where we be

That ain't no place to smite a lady.

Well, anyway, there's some consolation in getting the seed catalogue before the neighbors' chicks are hatched.

Among the things which come to those who wait is spring fever.

The seven wonders of the world in the spring are the seven days in the week.

Country Cousin—"Wal, by rickety, the papers was right. The fads in this show is dressed some-thing 'scandalous."

City Cousin—"Shut up, Si! The curtain hasn't gone up yet; all that you see are the ladies in the box-seats."

Springtime nearly always arrives ahead of spring.

"CHIEF Haywood is so lazy that he hasn't been up in time to get to the bank in three weeks."

"That's nothing. Jeff Wynn is so lazy that for two years the neighbors thought he was an invalid."

Sure Signs.

Grass is sprouting right along. Hear the blue birds sing. Crows are jumping up. Chattering the spring in.

Explorers have discovered ancient ruins and ink which can still be used for writing. This last qualification excludes the possibility of the post office claiming them as their property.

No one ever gets anything for nothing very long.

This world is full this spring of new-fangled, nearly worn and rusty bits.

My head for action is grate, and my feet, and always has bin.

"Here is where I go on a tour," said the mouse as he ran up the ribber sticking.

Be Prepared for Your Life Work

Principal Van Ingen of Kingston High School stresses importance of Preparedness in Talk to Boys on Preparedness.

Commissioner Arthur C. Connelly and Professor B. C. Van Ingen of Kingston High School were speakers at the meeting of Colonial Chapter, Order of De Molay, Monday evening at the Masonic rooms on Wall street. In introducing Principal, Van Ingen, Mr. Connelly gave a short and interesting talk, congratulating the chapter on its splendid ideals and relating how inspiring a De Molay service is to the older Masons who attend and realize what wonderful work the young men are doing for self-betterment. The topic of Mr. Van Ingen's very vivid and helpful talk was "Patriotism." He pointed out the admirable patriotism exhibited by the soldiers in America's great wars from the Revolutionary War till the most recent World War. Mr. Van Ingen also stressed the importance of a person being prepared for his life work, using Washington as an example and pointing out his extensive preparation before becoming leader of the Colonial armies. At the conclusion of the addresses, Elroy Morris and Harry Barnhart gave a humorous dialogue.

Nutty Natural History

By EUGENE HUTTON.

THE OCULAR GOGGLE.

The goggle has long been noted for possessing the sharpest eyesight of any living creature, as it feeds on small fleas and other similar insects, and is known to sight them miles away. An expedition from the American Museum of Nutty Natural History recently caught one in northern Senegal, and subjected it to a number of interesting tests. The goggle was able to count the hairs on a portrait of Eugene Debs at thirty-six feet, and readily saw through the Eighteenth Amendment. This particular individual was completely goggled, however, in attempting to make out an examination chart used by oculists.

The goggle has a head manufactured from a good sized hickory nut, with eyes of split lima beans and ink spots. The ears are popcorn and the body is a medium fibert. Toothpicks answer for the legs, neck and tail and the feet are split navy beans. (Metropolitan Newspaper Service, New York.) (Tomorrow—The Mountain Gap.)

The day will also be observed at the Reformed Church of Zena at 2:30, daylight savings time, and the same program will be rendered. All mothers of the two congregations are urged to be present as well as all others who feel that they owe some tribute of respect to a mother.

WHY do you call your new model—

This question has been asked us so frequently since the advent and announcement of this marvelously efficient electric cleaner, that we want, briefly, to summarize the chief reasons:

- 1 For the first time, it makes possible "Positive Agitation" of floor coverings.
- 2 By actual test, in the ordinary cleaning time, it beats out and sweeps up from carpeting an average of 101% more dirt.
- 3 It is an even greater rug-saver; the oftener a carpet is cleaned with a Hoover the longer that carpet will wear.
- 4 It is virtually service-proof, every part, including the new motor, requiring no oiling.
- 5 It increases the efficiency of its remarkable dusting tools because of its 50% stronger suction.
- 6 Its exclusive dust and germ-proof bag is now washable.
- 7 Its form and finish are of startling beauty; and every new feature insures greater operating ease.

Chrysler engineers have designed the Chrysler "58" to satisfy the rigorous driving requirements of today, joined to a most unusual economy of operation.

How well they have succeeded is shown by the fact that the Chrysler "58" attains and maintains a speed of 58 miles per hour, accelerates from 5 to 25 miles in 8 seconds, and achieves 25 miles to the gallon. Some cars have one of these features; a few have two—but none, regardless of price, except Chrysler "58", gives all three in combination.

Oakwood Seminary Principal Tells Women Two Motives Actuate Young People of Today—Deplores Giving Children Too Much Money to Spend.

A delegation from the Kingston and Newburgh Auxiliaries of the Y. M. C. A. were guests of the Poughkeepsie Auxiliary at their meeting Monday afternoon. A chartered bus containing about 31 women left the Kingston Y. M. C. A. about 1:30 p. m.

They were greeted upon their arrival by Mrs. A. L. Peckham, president of the Poughkeepsie Auxiliary, and other officers and members. Reports by officers and chairmen of the Poughkeepsie Auxiliary were listened to. The secretary and treasurer of the Newburgh Auxiliary and the Newburgh Boys' Work secretary, Gordon Law, told something of the work of their organization, and Mrs. W. R. Anderson, secretary of the Kingston Auxiliary, gave a synopsis of the year's work at Kingston. The real feature of the afternoon was the address by Principal J. H. Oakwood Seminary. He told many of his personal experiences with boys and girls whom he thinks better in some respects, worse in others, than those of the preceding generation. He holds that just two motives actuate the young people today, a search for the real and genuine and a passion for pleasure. He scored parents for giving their children too much money to spend and not enough of themselves and their time.

Dainty refreshments were served and a pleasant social time was enjoyed. Mrs. W. A. Longyear, president of the Kingston Auxiliary, invited the Poughkeepsie and Newburgh Auxiliaries to be guests of the Kingston Auxiliary at their June meeting, which will be held at Mrs. Longyear's summer camp at Shokan.

RADIO

Farm Radio Making Rapid Growth—There Are Nearly 1,000,000 Radio Sets on Farms in the United States.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

There are nearly 1,000,000 radio sets on farms in the United States, the Department of Agriculture estimates in a report on the growth of farm radio during the past five years.

In some states, the department says, there are radio sets on 25 to 40 per cent of all farms. Estimates made by the department in 1923 showed 145,000 sets in use on farms at that time; 363,000 sets in 1924, and 553,000 sets early in 1925.

Increased power and improved broadcasting, together with better receiving sets, the department believes, "will do much to aid in establishing the permanency of the use of radio for the benefit of agriculture."

"One station alone in a period of three months' broadcasting of market and weather reports, received more than 3,000 letters of commendation from farmers, country banks, shippers of live stock, and small merchants in the towns in 12 agricultural states surrounding the station."

Interference among stations may gradually be eliminated, the department believes, as many of the less active stations are being discontinued, and technical improvements are being made in both broadcasting and receiving equipment. Of 1,458 radio stations of all sizes licensed to broadcast since broadcasting began, only 536 were active on January 1 this year.

Co-Operative Arrangements.

The department has made co-operative arrangements with more than 100 stations for broadcasting official market news gathered by department representatives in leading shipping and consuming areas. Since the first of the year the department has made arrangements with about 60 stations to broadcast on a regular schedule four additional services dealing with general agricultural information.

Literally hundreds of stations have requested the privilege of handling the government reports, but many of the requests have had to be refused the department says, because the stations are remote from the department's market news branch offices.

"When the experimental radio market news service was announced on December 21, 1920," the report states, "those in the Department of Agriculture who were directing the new activity hardly anticipated the wonderful possibilities of radio broadcasting as we now know it. A laboratory transmitter at the United States bureau of standards on a 400-meter wave length, a few enthusiastic amateurs within a hundred miles of Washington, and a 5 p. m. schedule of about 500 words by radio telegraph, composing what was called the 'radio market-gram,' constituted the elements of the experiment."

"The practical results of this first experiment could hardly be called conclusive, but they gave encouragement to those in charge of it to push on. In the quest of more and more evidence. On April 7, 1921, an announcement was made that arrangements had been completed with the air-mail radio service of the Post-Office department to transmit by wireless market reports several times a day from post-office stations at Washington, D. C., Baltimore, Pa., St. Louis, Mo., and Omaha, Neb."

Amateurs Were Enlisted.

"Assuming an effective radius of 250 miles about each station, 10,000 amateurs in the areas covered were enlisted to copy the reports and to furnish them to shippers' associations, county agents, state bureaus of markets, farm bureaus and other agricultural agencies, banks, newspapers and local telephone exchanges. A number of licensed operators offered to copy the reports. By January 1, 1922, the market reports were being relayed and broadcast by radio telegraph from seven post office stations in a chain across the country."

"During 1923, reports were furnished to three of the then very few radio telephone broadcasting stations. Since then, the service has grown by leaps and bounds until now there is practically no agricultural community in the country that is without official market reports on agricultural commodities. Well established schedules of weather, crop and market reports are broadcast from more than 100 stations in all parts of the country."

Farmers, of necessity, the department says, have bought mainly high-priced sets capable of getting distant stations. The average cost of radio sets on more than 1,000 farms widely scattered over the country in 1923 was estimated by the department at $175. Better and more easily operated equipment can be bought now for half this amount, the department says.

An authentic list of broadcasting stations the country over that broadcast market and crop reports has been prepared by the department for free distribution. Requests for the list should be mailed to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

FOREFATHERS OF RADIO

By GEORGE LEWIS of The Crocker Radio Corporation.

Developments in radio transmission went ahead by leaps and bounds, but the reception of signals was hampered by the lack of proper means for detecting them. Many men worked upon this problem. J. A. Fleming, for instance, invented the "valve," which was the forerunner of the radio tube developed by DeForest in this country. But the detecting device which became most popular in the early days of radio was the crystal detector, as developed by Dinnwoody and Picard and introduced in 1906. By means of the crystal detector the received electric current is so modified that it will operate a telephone receiver.

Up to this time there had been no few radio stations that there was little difficulty about the signals of more than one station being received at the same time and "interfering" with one another. However, such difficulties were anticipated by other factors which overcame them.

The length of waves sent out by the transmitting station depends upon certain constants of the apparatus. Just as the length of a water wave depends upon the object which causes the disturbance in the water and is responsible for the waves. Thus a cork dropped into a pond will send out little, short, choppy waves, while if a big stone were overturned, the splash it makes will be followed by giant waves of great length. By adjusting certain parts of the transmitting apparatus the length of wave that it sends out may be controlled and by adjusting the similar parts of the receiving apparatus one may control the wave length to which it will respond. This adjustment is called "tuning."

Thus very early in the history of radio transmitting stations sent each other waves tuned to different wave lengths, so that the operator of a receiving set could tune to any one of them.

UNITED STATES TIRES ARE GOOD TIRES

A train of tank cars containing rubber latex on a United States Rubber Company Plantation

Answering some more questions about the United States Rubber Company's Rubber Plantations

Q—When did the United States Rubber Company first start to grow its own rubber?

A—In 1911 the company planted 14,000 acres, or about 22 square miles in Sumatra. This represented then and still does, the largest planting operation completed by any one company in a single year.

As new property has been acquired the work has gone steadily forward until today the company has 136,000 acres, approximately 60% of which is already planted.

Q—Does it take long to grow a rubber tree?

A—It takes about 4 to 6 years from the time a seedling is planted until a tree is ready to be tapped, and its initial yield is only small. Clearing the jungle, removing stumps, draining the land, breaking ground, growing seedlings from selected seeds, budding, grafting, transplanting and carefully tending the young plants, to say nothing of constructing roads, railways, wharves, storage tanks, and buildings to house power plants, equipment, and employees in a wild tropical country—all take time and money.

Q—Why did the United States Rubber Company make this investment?

A—Because it foresaw the time coming, when in the interest of greater economy and better and more uniform quality, it would be advisable for it to know all there was to know about rubber growing, and to be producing a considerable portion of its own rubber. Recent events have justified this farsighted policy, and every man who buys a United States Tire or any other United States Rubber Company product is today benefiting by it.

Q—Is the United States Rubber Company's Plantation well regarded by authorities on rubber?

A—Yes. Herbert Ashplant, the British Rubber Mycologist of Southern India, in his report entitled "Recent Developments in the Rubber Planting Industry," refers to the United States Rubber Company Plantation at Kisanan, Sumatra, as follows:

"Of all the areas visited, none produced so much useful information. Kisanan, the headquarters of these plantations, has become the Mecca of all planters who wish to keep abreast of recent rubber research. It is astonishing to find how many of the familiar problems of rubber planting have been satisfactorily settled during the last few years by the researches of the scientific staff."

To Tell Democrats What He Thinks

Governor Smith Will Free His Mind Concerning Leaders Who Imagine They Can Force Him To Accept Renomination.

Albany, May 4.—After the 30-day bills have been disposed of and Governor Al Smith has a little extra time on his hands, he is going to have some heart to heart talks with the Democratic leaders of the state.

He is going to tell them in plain words, so there can be no misunderstanding of his position, that under no circumstances will he be a candidate to succeed himself as governor at this fall's election.

Early this year, at a meeting of the Democratic State Committee in Albany, the governor served notice on the Democratic leaders that he intended to retire from state politics at the end of the present year.

Think They Are Powerful.

Despite all the governor has said, incidents which have transpired in the last few weeks show the Democratic leaders are going ahead on the assumption they will be able to force the governor into a renomination.

This is disturbing to the governor and when he confers with the leaders next month he intends to tell them that they had better devote their time to looking about for another candidate.

Some of the leaders think, however, that because the governor finally consented to accept a renomination two years ago after he had said repeatedly he would not, they will be able to prevail upon him again this year. But his friends say that conditions now and two years ago are much different. They say that the one real reason for the governor's action of two years ago was because he did not want to be placed in the position of "running out" on the National Democratic ticket. He had pledged to help the national ticket that night in Madison Square Garden after John W. Davis had been nominated for president and he kept that promise by running for governor, although he did not want to do it, his friends say.

No Promises Now.

Now the governor has no such promises to keep and he is convinced the time has come when he must step down and out of state politics.

The leaders are planning to argue with the governor that his chances to win the Democratic presidential nomination in 1928 will be bettered if he makes the gubernatorial race and is reelected this fall. But the governor cannot see it that way, say his friends.

Those who are close to the governor believe he will stick to his present intention of retiring at the end of his present term and that eventually he will engage in the banking business in New York city.

Britain Again Relies on Navy

Portsmouth, England, May 4.—The British Navy throughout history has been the backbone of the defense of the nation in every crisis, and today it appears that again the navy is to be relied upon for defense purposes.

The Atlantic Fleet was scheduled to sail from this port today for its summer cruise, but the majority of the fleet failed to sail.

Destroyers and submarines departed as scheduled but the major portion of the fleet remain in port, with steam up, awaiting orders.

Naval ships have already been called upon to a considerable extent and besides aiding in the movement of troops, warships have been sent up the Thames to London, up the Humber to Hull and up the Mersey to Liverpool, prepared for any emergency.

Admiral Sir Osmond De Broek, in command of the naval base here, has issued a warning that any person attempting to cause disaffection in the naval forces or distributing seditious literature will be immediately arrested.

landed by a destroyer after a passage up the Thames.

Labor Blames Government.

The Daily Herald, the labor organ, today charged that the government had rebuffed "every effort of the trade unions to pave the way for an honorable peace. If war is to be it. The whole movement is ready. When wise counsel prevails in Downing Street, labor is still ready with a sound and reasonable solution."

The government broadcast by radio an urgent appeal to printers, linotypers, and pressmen to enlist to produce a special official newspaper. Protection was promised to the recruits.

Early this afternoon streets in the vicinity of Trafalgar Square and Whitehall became practically impassable. Lounging strikers, augmented by crowds of unemployed, milled around, singing and shouting, apparently with no more definite object than to see what was going on. The crowds were entirely cheerful and good natured.

Shortly after noon the strike leaders at their headquarters at Eccleston square were reinforced by the arrival of Herbert Smith, A. J. Cook, Ramsay MacDonald and Arthur Henderson.

Schubert Choral Club Concert

Club Members and Indian Princesses Pleading Program Before Large and Appreciative Audience at High School Auditorium.

Princess Te Ata, the real Indian princess who was the assisting artist at the spring concert given by the Schubert Choral Club of the Y. W. C. A., completely captivated the entire audience in giving her unique part of the program Monday evening at the high school. In fact it was one of the best concerts given by the club of young women under the leadership of Miss Virginia Los Kamp. The program was suited to the club and the bright, pleasing music was sung admirably, in excellent pitch and with spirit. The fortifying of the alto parts of the chorus added much to the proper balance of the music.

The club's first group of songs included "The Bells of Youth," by Olej Speaks; a Medley from the South, arranged by Harry Hale Pike; and "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," by Harry T. Burleigh, arranged by N. Clifford Page. The last number was especially good.

In the second group of songs there were pleasing incidental solos. Miss Jessie Cowley was the incidental soloist in the song "Silver," by Victor Harris. "In Springtime," by Mabe W. Daniels, was in four parts. Miss Jeanette Grimes was the soloist and she and Miss Mesinger sang a duet in "The Awakening." Mrs. Rich sang the solo part in "Apple Blossoms" and Miss Jones was the soloist in "The West Wind and the May." The last part was "Spring Heralds." The club sang the entire group excellently and was warmly applauded.

The club brought the program to a close by singing a merry song, "Silver Sleighbells," by Cuthbert Harris; "Rain," by Pearl G. Curren—one of the best songs that they sang during the evening; and the stirring "Unfold Ye Portals," from Gounod's "The Redemption," arranged by Ross Hilton. The club and Miss Los Kamp were heartily applauded.

To those at all familiar with the significance of the Indian costume, the nobility of the charming Indian girl as she appeared after the prelude to Hiawatha's Wooing, by Rosseter G. Cole, played by Ethel Watson Usher at the piano, was fully established by the richly royal costume that she wore. She did not sing Hiawatha's Wooing, but she did recite it in a fascinatingly vibrant voice, the musical accompaniment adding much to the beauty of the most unusual performance. Then with bow and arrow Princess Te Ata gave "The Hunting Dance," by Rosseter G. Cole, a wild and yet furtive dance, in which the grace and litheness of the dancer were marvelous.

As Miss Usher, who accompanied the Schubert Club as well as the Princess, appeared to play the opening measures for Princess Te Ata's second appearance, she was given a well deserved ovation by the audience.

The princess had laid aside her hunting costume and was beautiful in the more maidenly habiliments. She certainly "lent to the rhyme of the poet the music of her voice." In "A Mountain Madrigal," (from the Yellowstone) by Thurlow Lieurance. Then came a group of native legends, sung, unaccompanied in the Indian tongue, but with such clever interpretation that the lullaby, the coquet's song, and others, were easily understood in spite of the strange sounding words. An Indian romance followed. Princess Te Ata gave as her last number, "Moon Drops Low," by Charles Wakefield Cadman, a song and dance picturing the passing of the Red Man, that was both tragic and unutterably pathetic, especially when one felt that in that passing disappeared such innate royalty as the princess herself had shown.

After the program a dance was given by the club at the Y. W. C. A., chaperoned by directors of the association.

MRS. SHERRY REPRESENTED NEW YORK STATE AT PICNIC

Mrs. Frances Sherry of Albany avenue is spending some time in Los Angeles, California, after visiting Mexico and San Francisco. While at Los Angeles she writes she was invited to attend the Federation of States Society picnic held at Sycamore Grove, where she was one of the representatives from New York State. While at the picnic she met Philo W. Case, one of the veterans of the Civil War who is living at Glendale. He has the same drum he used during the war and showed her a hole drilled in the side of the wood, and asked her to peek through it. She did so and saw a photo of the eight soldiers who survived. Mr. Case is 89 years old and informed Mrs. Sherry that he wanted his own home and had a nice garden.

ALL THIS WEEK

THE GIRL OF 1926

With 20,000,000 people following the breath-taking story of her life in more than 100 leading newspapers, "Sandy" in motion pictures should be the greatest box-office attraction of the current season. It's a drama of today; tingling with romance, thrilling with adventure, pulsating with heart throbs, yet bubbling with joy. It's as vital as life itself and as up-to-date as this afternoon's newspaper.
